"Soon Enough" at insitu, Berlin

August 5-2016

"Soon Enough" at insitu, Berlin, 2016

Participating artists: James Hoff, Franziska Lantz, Deborah Ligorio, Mara Ploscaru, Nicolo Russian, Priscilla Tea.

Curated by Matilde Cerruti Quara and Sorana Serban.

"I never think of the future – it comes soon enough."
—Albert Einstein

insitu is pleased to invite Matilde Cerruti Quara and Sorana Serban to guest curate the event for the Project Space Festival Berlin 2016.

They will present a one-evening series of performative acts as well as a group show with works by James Hoff, Franziska Lantz, Deborah Ligorio, Mara Ploscaru, Nicolo Russian and Priscilla Tea, which opens the same night.

Time is an assumption, an apparatus humankind produced in order not to lose track of itself. Once overcome, the evolution of species may spread beyond its borders, crossing the limits of this dimension.

The performances represent a metaphorical Big Bang within the context of the exhibition. Deborah Ligorio will lead visitors into a guided meditation, aimed at developing inner evolution through both critical thinking and relaxation. Franziska Lantz will then intervene with a sound performance, producing ancestral sounds from an era of the future past.

With the kind support of Supportico Lopez, atthebar and The Romanian Cultural Institute.
