The first edition of the Project Space Festival Berlin starting August 1st, will feature a different space with a surprise event (events will only appear in the calender a week or so before taking place) every day during this month. It's pretty exciting to see festivals first editions and in this case, the innovative idea and the well organize and beautiful website will convince you to join then on at least one of the dates.

Already next Monday the Weddinger featured project space, Ugbar, will host a performative lecture about their current sound installation made by artists Eva Kietzmann and Petra Kübert. We also recommend to keep an eye on what the ZK/U (centre for art and urbanistics in the neighbour Moabit) has prepared for the Bar Berlin festival.
